

PRESS RELEASE

Infonoia Director appointed Jury Member of International Open-Source Competition

Geneva, Switzerland, 1 June 2006 - Infonoia Director Wolfgang Gehner has been appointed member of the jury of the "Trophées du Libre", an international competition whose aim is to promote the creation, benefits and use of open-source software.

The competition is to reward the best creations, or existing open-source software, in appreciation of the wealth of creativity from developers, enterprises and administrations in this domain.

The jury members of the Third Edition of the Trophées du Libre originate from 12 different countries, such as Austria and South Africa. Wolfgang Gehner is representing Switzerland in the category "enterprise software". The other 5 categories are security, applications for public administrations, education, multimedia and video games, and PHP.

The competition is organized by CETRIL (European Center of Transfer and Research in Free Software), a French non-profit organisation. The award ceremony will take place on 7 December 2006 in Soissons, France. For more information about "Trophées du Libre", visit www.tropheesdulibre.org.

About Infonoia

Infonoia - a merge of the words information and paranoia - is a software and services company headquartered in Geneva, Switzerland. The company specializes in Java web applications built with open source components, in particular the framework Struts and Eclipse, and Enterprise Search solutions. A server-side Eclipse application which Infonoia implemented for the World Health Organization has won the Open Source Best Practice Award. More information about Infonoia is available on www.infonoia.com.

Press contact

Monika Gehner
Infonoia SA
Rue de Berne 7
CH-1201 Geneva
Phone: +41 (0)22 900 00 09
Fax: +41 (0)22 900 00 18